FIGHT BREAKS OUT ON FLOOR OF CONVENTION

"Insurgents" and "Regulars" Battle Over Rebuke in Resolutions to Old Leaders

TOWNLEY IS DEFENDED

Attempts Made to "Crucify" Old Leaders Resented by "Regulars" on the Floor

The special Nonpartisan League convention culminated today shortly after noon with the adoption of resolutions, after a morning session devoted almost wholly to their consideration, and marked by an outbreak of the "war" which has been raging in the league between the "insurgents" and "regulars."

The convention ended with a compromise on one resolution in which the "insurgents" sought to castigate A. C. Townley and William Lemke and in which the "regulars" sought to prevent what they said was an effort to "crucify" them. In the compromise resolution, it was declared that all relations with the national Nonpartisan League Executive committee would cease, but not mentioning any names.

Senator John Mikkelsen, leader of the "insurgents" voted for the resolution while John Andrews of the so-called Mikkelsen-Andrews-Annus "action" said that it was satisfactory only if it really meant the elimination of A. C. Townley and William Lemke.

Other resolutions included: Reaffirming allegiance to original program; Urging North Dakota representatives in Congress to seek a law establishing a milling value on wheat; Pledging support to the state weekly newspaper to be established; Condemning the state board of managers of the Grand Forks mill and the purchase of Canadian wheat; Condemning purchase of flour from "Chamber of Commerce mills" for state institutions; Approving Norris-Sinclair grain corporation bill.

The convention rejected resolutions presented by Alfred Knutsen embodying the platform of the Federated Farmer-Labor body formed some months ago in Chicago, and resolutions offered by Senator Ingerson attacking the credit system of the nation and offering a public banking plan. The action on the Ingerson resolution was occasioned in part by lack of time for discussion.

The "regulars" of the convention, which were in control all day yesterday and kept the smoldering fires of revolt from bursting into oratorical flames, appeared to be in control this morning when the resolution offered by the resolutions committee pertaining to the past leadership was brought before the body. The resolutions committee was composed of Frank Vogels of Coleharbor, S. S. McDonald of Bismarck and T. H. E. Thorsen of Dunn Center.

Resolution A Compromise

The resolution as presented was a compromise and said that whereas past relationship with the Nonpartisan League national organization had been unsatisfactory and led into difficulties relations with the national executive committee were severed.

This follows action taken yesterday and declared moot by some because the executive committee is not functioning at this time. Members of the executive committee are William Lemke, F. B. Wood and H. Samuels of Idaho. A. C. Townley formerly was a member.

Hinged Wording

The difference between the "insurgents" and "regulars" hinged on the wording of the resolution, the former wanting it so framed that there would be a direct slap at Townley and Lemke and the "regulars" opposing this. As presented it provided that relations be severed with the "national executive committee."

A. A. Luederbach, former state chairman, declared that "this does not name the officials. If you are going to re-establish confidence you must be able to tell your people that there is an absolute divorce between the state and national organizations."

Herman Hardt of Napoleon took the same view.

Hempel declared that "if you can't go home and say we have buried the old leaders and made grass grow upon their graves you can't get confidence."

Sen. Mikkelsen declared that "We must go home and say we have eliminated the old leadership."

Fred Argast of Burleigh county declared that "there are some men here trying to crucify and assassinate the men who made it possible for you to be here. Some of these men will be out trying to assassinate Lynn J. Frazier next. The men you

CREATION OF NEW POLITICAL PARTY IS PUZZLER TO LEAGUERS

The Nonpartisan League state convention here has brought out a new political situation in the state.

William Lemke, when candidate for Governor for the League against Governor Nestos, ran in the individual column with the designation of party principles following and using the designation "Nonpartisan League."

Senator Dave Hamilton told the league convention that this created a new political party—the Nonpartisan League Party. It would be entitled to second place on the ballot, and it would be up to the league to choose between running on that ticket and sticking in the Republican party column.

M. W. Duffy, deputy secretary of state, asked concerning the situation today, said that the law provides that a party is entitled to a place in the party

League in Session Keeps Name Nonpartisan League, Decides on Weekly Newspaper, Separates Absolutely from National Nonpartisan League, Discusses New Election Status and Whether Nonpartisan League Is Now a Party—"Insurgents" Kept Down on First Day's Convention

The Nonpartisan League membership in North Dakota, once over 40,000, was not brought back to that figure by the organization campaign conducted by A. C. Townley in the state from July to November, 1922, according to a statement of the results of the Townley organization plan given the special Nonpartisan League state convention here late yesterday afternoon.

The report was to the effect that 13,078 members were enrolled in the Townley campaign, of which 5,578 paid their $7.50 membership fee in cash, the remainder giving notes or post dated checks, few of which have been collected.

Townley settled with the state committee for $4,200.00 for conducting the campaign, the convention was informed. It was stated that Townley last summer paid the expenses of the league headquarters, took care of Barnes county leaguers' notes given to keep the Courier-News, paid a note given by A. A. Luederbach, when chairman of the state committee to a Hillsboro bank, of $380; and settled some other bills. There had been turned over to Townley for collection $55,000 worth of old post dated checks. He figured 40 percent would be collected and his fee was estimated at $1,500, on which basis the state committee settled with him.

Townley had not furnished the North Dakota leader to all leaguers regularly as agreed, Church said. Some delegates inquired concerning this. Church said that the League, when published, had gone to many thousands of convention to which Townley was assigned to send it, and that latter rested without no further discussion.

"Insurgents" Shut Off

In the afternoon session, after several hours spent in preliminaries and examining credentials, the convention adopted an order of business which was understood to be designed to keep down the "insurgents" under the name of "Nonpartisan League" and to keep down the "insurgents" under the name of "Nonpartisan League."

The order adopted was: naming of resolutions committee, name of the organization, separation from National Nonpartisan League, designating official organ, price stabilization discussion by C. W. Reichert, discussion of Sinclair-Norris bill by Rep. J. H. Sinclair, discussion of future of the league, ways and means, amendments to by-laws, resolutions.

The "insurgents" never got a chance to get in an inning during the afternoon, on more than one occasion when the flare of revolt was sensed, Rep. J. C. Miller of Bottineau, permanent chairman, held the discussion strictly to the order of business and prevented discussion.

The first question discussed was the name of the organization. In motion of T. H. E. Thorsen of Dunn county the convention voted to leave the name "Nonpartisan League."

Mr. Thorsen declared that the past campaigns had been discussed under that name, the voters knew it, that many citizens voted "Nonpartisan" and not for candidates because they could not read, and that if another name was adopted it would be necessary to go ahead and educate the voters again.

Senator Dave Hamilton raised a new question. He said that William Lemke ran for Governor in the column of the ballot if it cost five percent of the total vote. Mr. Lemke did this and he believes that the Nonpartisan League party column was created on the ballot, for the next June election but not the next March primary.

Asked whether, as some one suggested in the league convention, the Democratic party went out of existence last fall because it did not have a candidate for Governor, he said that the law provides places on the ballot for the Republican, and Democratic parties and other parties qualifying by polling 5 percent of the votes in the individual column in a previous election. He presumed, therefore, that the Democratic party would be entitled to a party column next year unless the law is unconstitutional.

The independent election laws passed last year are inoperative because of a referendum.

Nationalists Leave Body During the Voting, Which Halts Action

Berlin, Oct. 11.—President Ebert this afternoon invested Chancellor Stresemann with authority to dissolve the Reichstag in the event the government authorization bill giving the chancellor wide authority in disposition of measures for economic rehabilitation failed to command the necessary two-thirds majority in that body.

The chancellor immediately informed the coalition party leaders of the alternative confronting the government party.

The caucus thereupon called a caucus with a view of uniting the party in support of the authorization law.

Berlin, Oct. 11.—The Reichstag this afternoon voted the first paragraph of the government authorization bill by 258 to 87.

The second paragraph also was voted but when the bill as a whole came up for a final vote the entire nationalist party left the Reichstag chamber. This left the body without a quorum and the Reichstag adjourned until Saturday when a final vote on the bill is expected.

CITY BAND TO GIVE CONCERT IN FEBRUARY

Bismarck Juvenile Organization Is Making Fine Progress Under Sorlien

Bismarck's Juvenile Band which is being trained under the joint auspices of the School Board and Association of Commerce will make its first public appearance at the City Auditorium sometime next February. This will be a benefit concert to defray the expense of purchasing uniforms and additional instruments.

Under the leadership of L. C. Sorlien the band is making fine progress. Members of the Association of Commerce committee attended a rehearsal last evening at the Will School and were greatly impressed.

There are thirty-five members, girls and boys in the advanced band and twenty-five in the beginners band which is training young musicians. Some of these will graduate into the advanced band by February and it is expected to have an organization of from fifty to sixty pieces when the first public appearance is made.

During the winter rehearsals will be conducted twice a week. The Juvenile Band now can play a number of selections in a manner that would justify an earlier public appearance, but it was deemed better to wait until an evening's program could be given that will reflect the real merit of the organization.

A financial report was submitted to be given to the public which has responded so generously at previous benefit concerts. Special credit for the success of the band so far must be given to Mr. Sorlien and his men and men who worked so hard on the various ticket drives.

The report follows:

JOINT SESSION OF OKLAHOMA SOLONS OPENS

Gov. Walton Sends His Message to Legislature—Does Not Appear Personally

URGES THAT SPECIAL KLAN LAW WHICH HE HAS DRAWN UP BE PASSED

Oklahoma City, Oct. 11.—Marshall law is in effect throughout Oklahoma since September 15 was lifted by Governor J. C. Walton in his proclamation, made public today.

The proclamation returns full authority to all civil officers. It was drawn last night but was not made public until today when Adjutant-General Markham made the announcement.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 11.—The Oklahoma legislators called into extraordinary session by Gov. J. C. Walton convened today. The house was called to order at 9:11 by Rep. Stovall who was chosen majority floor leader at a caucus last night. A few minutes later the senate convened and then both had a recess for a joint meeting to receive the governor's message.

A committee informed Governor Walton that they were ready to hear him. The governor did not appear personally but Aldrich Blake brought the message and delivered it to the senate with the brief statement: "Gentlemen, herewith is presented the governor's message to the legislature."

The clerk then began reading the message.

Asks Anti Klan Law

Oklahoma City, Oct. 11.—Gov. J. C. Walton called upon the Oklahoma Legislature today to enact an anti Klan law to save the state from the disaster which he says exists through the secret organization. In his address opening an extraordinary session of the assembly the executive charged the Klan with responsibility for hundreds of outrages and punctuated his remarks by laying before the lawmakers transcripts of all testimony produced by military courts of inquiry which under his proclamations of military law investigated mob violence in various parts of the state. He requested the solons to examine the records and then publish it.

"This all powerful and most demoralizing super government is and deriding the very cornerstone and foundation of our government and sapping the life blood of our citizenship," Gov. Walton declared. "It must either be killed or the government itself must give way to anarchy and revolution. There is no alternative or middle ground."

The governor reviewed at length the train of events which have kept the state in turmoil for a month and concluded his message with a plea that the legislature pass a bill which he himself had prepared that "the people may be protected forever in their personal property and fundamental liberties."

"The conflict between the visible and invisible government must be brought to a close with a complete victory for the visible government or Oklahoma will face strife the end of which is destruction."

Hundreds Were Beaten

"Hundreds of Oklahoma citizens have been beaten and tortured while others were threatened. Tens of thousands protested that the law enforcing branches of our government and in many cases the courts were under the influence of the invisible empire."

"My investigation discloses from the sworn testimony in one case where six reputable citizens testified they heard the Grand Titan of the Tulsa Klan make the statement to the effect that there have been six different 'Mer Rouge' similar to the Louisiana affair committed in his jurisdiction."

"Some of these cases present outrages and cruelty in the extreme and mutilation, some are too awful to disclose in print, and all of which lead straight to the door step Invisible Empire."

"That these conditions may be immediately terminated and that people may be protected in their personal property, and fundamental liberty, I recommend that you immediately enact into law the bill submitted here which seems to be adequate to meet every exigency and contingency. This law provided for punishing all citizens and compels secret organizations to publish a list of their membership as well. The law which you may pass must not be a make shift merely as an expediency measure but must be in truth, in fact, and in law one that has teeth and will meet the alarming situation. Nothing less will destroy this 'super invisible' and asserted 'invincible' government, and nothing less will satisfy the people's demand."

The court expressed desire to expand the money for printing within the state of North Dakota, providing that North Dakota plants would win the contract by competitive bid, thus providing employment for North Dakota people.

GERMANS OFFER AID TO FRENCH

Would Cooperate in the Ruhr, Declares German Charge d'Affaires

Paris, Oct. 11.—Herr von Hoesch, the German charge d'affaires, called on Premier Poincare today offering the cooperation of the Reich toward resumption of the economic life of the Ruhr.

Premier Poincare replied that inasmuch as negotiations were in progress with groups of industrialists and labor leaders he did not consider it advisable to begin further conversations on the subject. He informed Herr von Hoesch that when Germany was ready for a proposition covering the entire question of reparation he would be glad to consider it.

The early fans filed into the ball park lazily and leisurely. There were occasional sounds of revelry when Nick Altrock and Al Schaft, the buffons of baseball, did their stuff. A five-year-old boy sided in their acts.

Advance guards of the two teams came on to the field almost simultaneously but there was hardly a ripple from the crowds.

Looking jaunty and full of fight it wouldn't have been guessed that the Yanks had lost the opening game. Evidently they believed with their managers, Miller Huggins, that all the breaks went to the Giants and they would have better luck today. Bismarck's Juvenile Band which is being trained under the joint auspices of the School Board and Association of Commerce will make its first public appearance at the City Auditorium sometime next February. This will be a benefit concert to defray the expense of purchasing uniforms and additional instruments.

Under the leadership of L. C. Sorlien the band is making fine progress. Members of the Association of Commerce committee attended a rehearsal last evening at the Will School and were greatly impressed.

There are thirty-five members, girls and boys in the advanced band and twenty-five in the beginners band which is training young musicians for the advanced organization. Some of these will graduate into the advanced band by February and it is expected to have an organization of from fifty to sixty pieces when the first public appearance is made.

During the winter rehearsals will be conducted twice a week. The Juvenile Band now can play a number of selections in a manner that would justify an earlier public appearance, but it was deemed better to wait until an evening's program could be given that will reflect the real merit of the organization.

A financial report was submitted to be given to the public which has responded so generously at previous benefit concerts. Special credit for the success of the band so far must be given to Mr. Sorlien and the women and men who worked so hard on the various ticket drives.

JOINT SESSION OF OKLAHOMA SOLONS OPENS

Gov. Walton Sends His Message to Legislature—Does Not Appear Personally

REVIEW MILITARY RULE

Urges That Special Klan Law Which He Has Drawn Up Be Passed

Oklahoma City, Oct. 11.—Military law in effect throughout Oklahoma since September 15 was lifted by Governor J. C. Walton in a proclamation made public today.

The proclamation returns full authority to all civil officers. It was drawn last night but was not made public until today when Adjutant-General Markham made the announcement.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 11.—The Oklahoma legislators called into extraordinary session by Gov. J. C. Walton convened today. The house was called to order at 9:11 by Rep. Stovall who was chosen majority floor leader at a caucus last night. A few minutes later the senate convened and then both had a recess for a joint meeting to receive the governor's message.

A committee informed Governor Walton that they were ready to hear him. The governor did not appear personally but Aldrich Blake brought the message and delivered it to the senate with the brief statement: "Gentlemen, herewith is presented the governor's message to the legislature."

The clerk then began reading the message.

Asks Anti Klan Law
Oklahoma City, Oct. 11.—Gov. J. C. Walton called upon the Oklahoma Legislature today to enact an anti Ku Klux Klan law to save the state from the disaster which he says exists through the secret organization. In his address opening an extraordinary session of the assembly the executive charged the Klan with responsibility for hundreds of outrages and punctuated his remarks by laying before the lawmakers transcripts of all testimony produced by military courts of inquiry which under his proclamations of military law investigated the mob violence in various parts of the state. He requested the solons to examine the records and then publish it.

"This all powerful and most demoralizing 'super government' is undermining the very cornerstone and foundation of our government and sapping the life blood of our citizenship," Gov. Walton declared. "It must either be killed or the government itself must give way to anarchy and revolution. There is no alternative or middle ground."

The governor reviewed at length the train of events which have kept the state in turmoil for a month and concluded his message with a plea that the legislature pass a bill which he himself had prepared that "the people may be protected forever in their personal property and fundamental liberties."

"The conflict between the visible and invisible government must be brought to a close with a complete victory for the visible government or Oklahoma will face strife the end of which is destruction."

Hundreds Were Beaten
"Hundreds of Oklahoma citizens have been beaten and tortured while highway accidents throughout the country were endorsed today by Governor Nestos in a statement. He said:

"The Highway Education Board, of which the United States Commissioner of Education is the chairman, is conducting a campaign of education throughout the schools of the country to reduce the number of highway accidents by the exercise of the precautionary measures that ought to be used by every driver of an automobile."

"This board is offering $5,500 in prizes to the children, and additional substantial prizes to the teachers. Any child fourteen years or under, belonging to the fifth, sixth, seventh, or eighth grade, may participate by writing an essay of not to exceed 500 words on the subject: 'Highway Safety Habits I Should Learn' and this essay, under the rules of the department, must be present before December fourth."

"In addition to the national prizes, which include a trip to Washington and three gold watches, there are state prizes as follows:
First, a gold medal and $15.
Second, a silver medal and $10, and three Third prizes of a bronze medal and $5 each.

"The grade teachers who care to participate may write an essay of from 1,000 to 5,000 words on the subject of 'Training Children in Habits of Safety on the Highway.' This must also be submitted before December fourth. For these essays, the first prize is $500 in cash and all expenses paid on a trip to Washington; second prize, $300 in cash; third prize, $200 in cash."

"I hope that the children and teachers of the grades in our state will participate in this contest not only for the prizes offered but because of the fact that it will give them a chance to think out very clearly the rules that ought to be followed by every person in the state in order to safeguard their own lives and health and the life and health of their neighbors."

Polo Grounds, N. Y., Oct. 11.—

Polo Grounds, N. Y., Oct. 11.—The Yankees batted out a victory today in the second game of the world's series with home runs by the great Babe Ruth and two homers, while Aaron Ward started the home run hitting for the Yankees. Meusel of the Giants also got a homer. Penneck pitched steadily for the Yankees, while the Yankees knocked Hugh McQuillen, one of McGraw's best pitchers, out of the box.

Polo Grounds, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Stunned into late sleep, perhaps by the thrills of yesterday's epic game which Casey Stengel won for the New York Nationals with a home run Gotham's fabled baseball fans arrived slowly at the Polo Grounds to witness the second encounter between the champions of the two major leagues for the world's title. The baseball bug who scoffs at the league games and sits only on world series bait got a surprise when he came into the historic old arena.

Since last year the outfield bleachers have been almost wiped out and the double-deckers of grand stands extended until it formed almost a complete enclosure with a small horseshoe opening broken in the center by the electric score-board.

In this enclosure 5,000 fans who had to get up early or watch the game downtown on an electric score-board were patiently seated when the brass bands trudged on the field. Those who didn't sleep last night were kept awake and those who did were put asleep with a soothing melody that sounded like distant mandolins.

The early fans filed into the ball park lazily and leisurely. There were occasional sounds of revelry when Nick Altrock and Al Schaff, the buffons of baseball, did their stuff. A five-year-old boy aided in their merriment.

Advance guards of the two teams came on to the field almost simultaneously but there was hardly a ripple from the crowds.

Looking jaunty and full of fight it wouldn't have been guessed that the Yankees had lost the opening game. Evidently they believed what the managers, Miller Huggins, that all the breaks went to the Giants and they would have better luck today. Babe Ruth, one of the first on the field, slung his trusty bludgeon on the side-lines while Cozy Dolan gave the Giants recruits some batting practice. The Giants were attired in their spick and span white uniforms.

First Inning.
Yankees—Frisch tossed out Witt. Dugan walked on four straight balls. Ruth walked and the crowd howled. Meusel hit into a double-play, Bancroft to Frisch to Kelley. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants—Scott threw out Bancroft. Penneck took Groh's slash and threw him out. Ward robbed Frisch of a hit with a one-hand stop and a quick throw to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning.
Yankees—Groh threw out Pipp, making a nice play of Pipp's hot grounder. Ward hit a home-run into the upper leftfield stands. Schang flied out to Snyder. Scott flied out to Meusel. One run, one hit, no error.

Giants—Young popped out to Dugan. Meusel hit a home-run into the leftfield stands, tying the score. Cunningham flied out to Ruth. Kelley singled into right. Snyder sent a high fly to Ward. One run, two hits, no errors.

Third Inning.
Yankees—Frisch tossed out Penneck. Frisch also got Witt at first. Dugan flied out to Meusel. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants—Dugan made a wonderful play on McQuillen's roller and threw him out. Bancroft flied to Meusel. Groh got a base on balls. Frisch singled into center-field. Young flied out to Ruth. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fourth Inning.
Yankees—Ruth got a home-run over the right-field fence. Meusel fanned. Pipp singled into right. Ward popped to Kelley. Schang got a hot pop to Kelley. Schang got a hot pop to Kelley. Schang got a hot pop to Kelley.

Mayor Wins At Special Election

Oakland, N. D., Oct. 11.—Sid Bergenthal, whose election as mayor last April was declared void because of election irregularities, was again named mayor of Oakland at a special election in which he received 140 votes. The election proved unexciting.

Contest was brought on the ground of irregularity in registration of voters, swearing in of voters and counting of absent voter ballot, which District Judge F. P. Allen upheld.

FIRE LOSSES DISCUSSED BY GOV. NESTOS

Bismarck Rotarians Observe Fire Prevention Week at Regular Luncheon

Appalling losses in America through waste by fire were emphasized in a stirring appeal for fire prevention by Governor B. A. Nestos before the Bismarck Rotary club at the McKenzies hotel this noon.

"President Coolidge," said Gov. Nestos, "has just yesterday signed a law for fire prevention week. It was the anniversary of the great Chicago fire. In this state I fixed by proclamation an entire week in which to consider ways and means to cut down the appalling loss through fire."

"There are about 22 causes of fire and out of this number 12 are absolutely preventable and of the remaining 10 causes most of them by the exercise of precaution can be prevented. During the last year the property loss in the United States from fire reached the staggering figure of $21,000,000. Just consider what a loss that is. If such an additional sum were available for items of education, relief work, support of the navy, in addition there were 15,000 deaths from fire and 17,000 persons were crippled for life. It means that there is a fire every minute of the day and that every four minutes a home is wiped out by this fire menace. When you consider that 400,000 matches are lighted every minute in America the chances of fire are great. Special precaution must be taken to prevent fires in view of this fact."

"The fire loss per capita in 1912 was $2.16 and it has increased in the last ten years until in 1922 it was $4.75, a 120 per cent increase. In Great Britain the per capita loss in 1922 was only 72 cents. There is no reason why this nation which prides itself upon its efficiency cannot duplicate what Great Britain has done in eliminating fire losses."

L. H. Richmond of the October program committee introduced Governor Nestos. F. E. Byrne, chairman of the Association of American fire prevention week committees was present as a guest and told of the plans to survey the city from a fire hazzard standpoint. A campaign is being conducted in the city schools.

A. F. Bradley was song leader for the day. Henry Halverson and George Humphreys gave a duet appropriate to the fall season.

One of the interesting features of the program were reports given by three boys who attended the Citizens Military Training camp at Fort Snelling. Archie McGraw told the recreation features of the camp. John Russ told of athletics and the fine showing made by the North Dakota boys. Jess Scroggins described the routine drill and told of the excellent training and what benefits could be gained by attendance at the camp. In answer to questions from Dr. Quinn the boys expressed themselves pleased at the summer's outing and anxious to return next year.

Visitors for the day were: Roy Baird, Dickinson; Barbank Lewis, formerly of Bismarck, now of Los Angeles; E. B. Vasey, O. K. Woolrich, Minneapolis; F. E. Byrne, Archie McGraw, Jess Scroggins and John Russ.

Mrs. E. H. Hughes, chairman for Navy Day for North Dakota, asked the Rotary club to celebrate Navy Day, which has been set for Saturday, Oct. 27. Henry Duemeland, read a communication from her emphasizing the significance of the day.

Strict Economy

"At all times the City Commission, and City Committee in consultation with these men have kept in mind strict economy as well as a first class plant, which will supply ample water of the right quality at all times."

In addition to the above experts, previously noted, the City Engineer has employed an expert designing engineer in the person of Mr. Thorne Dickinson. Mr. Dickinson has been devoting all of his time to the details of the filtration for some time past. He is seeing that every piece of steel is in its proper place. That it is of proper size, quality and weight. That every yard of concrete is properly mixed and placed. That the sand and gravel is all washed before being unloaded. That the required amount of the highest grade of cement is used. That the waterproofing material is of the right quality and rightly used. He has as his assistant Mr. Lorenzo Belk, who has had years of experience as a steel and concrete inspector for the Highway Commission. Not a yard of concrete is poured or a foot of steel placed without the approval of these men.

Inspector Chosen

"Mr. Belk," has employed Mr. George Dooley to inspect the laying of the water mains. Mr. Dooley has spent his entire life in this work. He inspects every piece of pipe as it is unloaded from the cars. He examines it again just before lowering it into the trench. He sees that the joints are properly caulked with lead and lute. He sees that the hydrants are in good condition and properly put in. In addition to all this Mr. Dooley applies a pressure of 100 pounds to the square inch to see that there are no leaks. All this before he allows the ditches to be filled with earth.

"All of this expense is paid for from the amount allowed the City Engineer as his compensation. In addition to this all supplies, rodders, assistants etc. are paid for in the same manner."

Everyone Should Vote.

"In order that this work, which has now progressed so far be completed it is absolutely necessary that you vote 'Yes' on both questions in the bond election. If you fail to do this the hands of the City Commission will be tied. The City Commission has proceeded with great care at all times in matters connected with the building of the plant. They have kept in mind the keeping down of expense, and are trying to give to the City the kind of a water system Bismarck deserves. We ask that you assist us to this end. It is to the best interests of us all. A big vote at this time will be of great assistance to the Commission."

MISS DOWNEY, LIBRARIAN, QUILTS PLACE

Accepts Position as Librarian of Denison University, Granville, Ohio

Miss Mary Elizabeth Downey, director of the North Dakota state library commission for the last two years, has resigned her position to accept a position as librarian of Denison University, Granville, Ohio. Her resignation is effective November 1.

"Having been invited by my alma mater, Denison University, to become librarian, I have decided to accept," Miss Downey said in a letter to the board of administration.

"It is, therefore, with exceeding regret that I resign my position with the North Dakota state library commission, especially as the work has now developed to be of great interest to me."

"It is, however, a very great honor that has come to me in the above invitation and as they are about ready to develop the library on a large scale and desire my assistance in the reorganization and the erection of a building to cost from $300,000 to $400,000 and as it has been one of my great desires to see this library developed as a model university library in my library life, I must not resist the opportunity when it is offered."

"In presenting my resignation to take effect November 1, I want to express my enjoyment of the North Dakota work and my appreciation of the cooperation of the Board of Administration and others who have been interested in making it a success."

Miss Downey came to Bismarck from the Utah state library commission, and previously had held library positions of importance in other states.

INTEREST IN PREVENTION WEEK IS GOOD

State Fire Marshal Pleased with Attitude Being Manifest by Many People

Widespread interest is being manifested in Fire Prevention Week in North Dakota. H. L. Reade, state fire marshal, said today. Commercial bodies, the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions and other civic clubs are taking an active interest in promoting the education work being conducted, he said.

One of the best meetings was held in Minot, Mr. Reade said. The business district, all schools, churches and theaters were inspected, and sessions of the State Fire-Prevention Association held.

Mr. Reade and S. A. Olagess, Commissioner of Insurance, Mayor Smart of Minot, and others addressed a banquet attended by 150 people in Minot.

North Dakota, Mr. Reade said, contributes an annual fire loss of over three and a half million dollars to the total annual fire loss of the country of $200,000,000. Mr. Reade is in Valley City today to address the Kiwanis club. On

The Man Who Pays Promptly AN APPRECIATION

The will to pay is hereditary, just as much as red hair or buck teeth. It is a common fallacy that a man pays his debts because he has money. This is not necessarily true. On the contrary, the matter of paying has only a remote relation to money.

On the one hand is your friend with abundance of money, who can not be calioled, threatened, beaten or gassed into paying the most ordinary debt.

On the other hand, the poor fellow without a visible dollar—you know him—who is Johnny on the Invoice. Money has little to do with either case. It is the breed of the man.

The man who pays is the man who thinks in advance. He never flashes a roll; he does not drive a car and carry a mortgage at the same time; he does not hang up the butcher, or the grocer, for food that he can not afford to eat; he never lights the fire without wondering where the coal man gets off. He never throws the Bull, nor pitches the Bluz, nor gives notes, nor writes checks dated tomorrow, but when the bills come in, he is there with the coin of the realm. God bless him.

Sometimes he may wonder if it is worth while. He does not see that he gets on any better than the fellow who skins as he goes. Still he goes on and on, pays and pays, simply because it is in the breed.

And after all, the World does think a lot of his breed. The man who pays is the bulwark of Society. He is the balance wheel of civilization. He is the mainpring of commerce. Business blesses him and he has honor among men for all time.

Like Looking at the Sun

Looking into one of the huge rotary kilns where the raw materials for cement are burned into clinker is just like looking at the noonday sun.

The terrific heat required makes a glare of light so intense that the glowing flame would temporarily blind you.

But borrow the workman's colored goggles to protect your eyes while you take another look into the kiln. Then you will see a tornado of powdered coal—or gas or spraying oil—bursting into a sheet of sun-white flame.

Into the other end of the kiln flow the powdered limestone and shale [clay]—the raw materials for cement.

As the slowly revolving kiln tumbles the materials about, they are subjected to gradually increasing heat. During their three-hour journey through this inferno, moisture and gases are first given off. Finally as the powdered materials reach the sunwhite flame, they half melt into glass-hard balls called "clinker." This clinker, an entirely new chemical compound, when finely powdered is portland cement.

Portland cement kilns consume great quantities of fuel—30 pounds of coal or its equivalent for each 94-pound sack of cement. For the whole cement making process the consumption of coal is approximately 50 pounds a sack—more than half a ton of coal to a ton of cement.

America Has Never Been "Licked"—

How Long Are We Going to Stand for It?
It's Up to YOU.

UNDER YOUR FEET
Charles Darwin found 53,000 "fishworms" in the average acre of British soil. The number was around half a million an acre where the soil was exceptionally rich.
Right now is the busiest season of the year for earthworms. Wherever the autumn winds are making withered leaves flutter to the earth, our old friend fishworm is dragging the dead leaves into his tunnels, there to rot and enrich the soil.

Professor J. Arthur Thomson, in "The Outline of Science," records that, on the average, the fishworms in an acre of ground pass 10 tons of soil through their bodies each year—"and they have been doing this for many millions of years." They cover the surface at the rate of three inches in 15 years, and they are thus continually circulating the soil. An age-long ploughing field, which was so thickly covered with hard clumps that it was known as The Stony Field, was left untouched for 30 years, after which a horse could gallop from one end to the other without ever striking a stone.

Darwin wrote this: "The plough is one of the most ancient and most valuable of man's inventions; but long before he existed the land was, in fact, regularly ploughed by earthworms. It may be doubted whether there are many other animals which have played so important a part in the history of the earth as have these lowly organized creatures."

The earthworm made life on earth possible for man. We couldn't continue existing, without its assistance at preparing the soil for the food we eat and for the trees so chemically necessary in our system of air supply.

Despite the earthworm's important function in nature's scheme of things, a lot of us are surprised to learn that it has a purpose other than to be used as fish bait.

IMAGINARY ILLS
Patrolman Odell had not worked for three weeks, his left arm being paralyzed. He took his six-year-old grandson for a walk. The lad fell off a pier into the ocean at Glen Island, N. Y. Grandpa forgot he was paralyzed, dived into the water, swam to the boy and saved him.

Next day he showed up for work, paralysis cured. Grandson's peril had made him forget it.
Power of mind over matter? Partly. Another factor: The emotional shock of seeing his grandson drowning probably over-stimulated his adrenal glands and their sudden activity affected his nervous system in a way to counteract the paralysis. Take your choice of the two theories.

LIFE FORCE
Dorothy Dodge picked 246 different kinds of wild flowers during the summer, near Haverhill, Mass. A lot of us would have bet there weren't that many. It illustrates the variety of ways in which the mysterious force, life, asserts itself.

There are over 200,000 species or groups of insects. They and the wild flowers and man and all other forms of life are made of practically the same substances—the elements of earth. The differences are in the life force, invisible.

SHORTAGE IS CYCLIC
Herbert Spencer proved that historic events have a rhythmic motion—travel in cycles. For instance, there's a big war about every 50 years.

Money, it seems, also has cycles. The Philadelphia mint is working at top speed. There's a shortage of pennies, nickels and quarters. The shortage is cyclic. Last one was in the autumn of 1921. No one knows why small change suddenly ran short. Probably means that the public is spending heavily—breaking a lot of bills.

ALL DUDES NOW
It took 30 years to get rid of the word "dude," whereby the cleanly dressed man was frowned upon either as effeminate or as having a hare-brain. So comments Fred Voiland, president of National Association of Retail Clothiers.

We're all dudes now, on occasion. That ends the ridicule that shadowed the fancy dresser years ago. The scoffers became dudes. Advertising did it.

NEW CURRENCY
The bodenmark is Germany's new currency unit. It's worth 358 grams of fine gold, backed by mortgages on city land and farms.

Money based on land values is something new under the sun. Should make a sound currency system, for "land values" is just another name for human productiveness. The more we work, more valuable becomes the land on which we toil—farm, factory, office, home or store.

SCARCITY A HYPNOTIST
An egg sells for nearly $1600 in London. It was laid by a Great Auk, bird now extinct. Only 70 of these eggs exist, which explains the high price. Scarcity is a hypnotist. For all useful purposes, the egg of a Great Auk is worth less than a plain chicken egg—fresh out of the coop, or even from cold storage.

After our actual necessities are supplied, value is largely imaginary—matter of self-hypnotism or hypnosis of others.

ECONOMICAL AMERICANS
Clothing makers check up and find that, for every 100 American men, only 52 new hats and 62 new suits were sold last year. Also, only 18 out of every 100 men ever wear kid gloves.

This explodes the myth that we're a nation of spend-thrifts. Or maybe we are so busy buying autos and "gas" that his wardrobe suffers.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY

The report from Blue Earth county showing that the dairy industry there has almost doubled in proportions the last few years is typical of nearly all Minnesota. Not long ago Minnesota was famed as an agricultural and mining state. Its iron ore output held an undisputed leadership. Next came the grain products of its fertile farms.

But now iron ore, wheat and corn have all given way to the dairy cow. This evolution has been a leading factor in making Minnesota one of the most prosperous states in the Union. It is sure to have the further effect of continuing prosperity, and making certain a steady income throughout the year in all rural districts where wide awake farmers realize the asset—we might say the blessing—the pure-bred dairy cow is to them. —St. Paul Daily News.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Frisky Colt looked around curiously. He had been left alone in Squeaky-Moo Land for the first time, and he didn't like it.

His mother had been driven off to town by Mrs. Brown to do some marketing, and the other horses were hauling in logs for the winter.

Frisky played with Crazy Cal for a while, but soon got tired and quit, for Crazy's name should have been Fraidy, for no matter what happened he kept running to his mother and tailing tales.

So Frisky wandered around and looked at everything with his great curious eyes and thought what a queer world it was.

"Oh, shucks!" he thought. "I guess I'll go over and watch the pigs. Perhaps I'll get an idea."

He trotted over on his long legs to the place where the pigs were, and stuck his long nose over the fence.

As usual, Twisty Tail and Piggy Wig and Saucy Snout were discussing things to eat.

Piggy Wig stuck up for sour milk and Twisty Tail put in a good word for sweet clover, but Saucy Snout said that of all things in this fine world he loved apples the best.

"Oh, my!" he sighed with a loud grunt. "If only I wasn't so fat I could squeeze through that narrow place in the fence and get into the orchard. And I'd eat all the apples on the ground!"

"There! I knew I'd get an idea!" nodded Frisky. "I'm tall and thin and I certainly can squeeze through that opening. Fanny I never thought of it before! I love apples. I've tasted them several times."

Off he trotted, and just as he expected, he got through the opening without a mite of trouble. And the ground was covered with windfall apples, much to his delight.

So he started in to eat. And he ate and he ate and he ate until he thought he would burst.

"My goodness!" he said suddenly. "The sun's going down and I'd better go home. And I'm thirsty, too! I'll stop at the horse trough and take a big drink!"

All of which he did. That night he started to swell. And he kept on swelling till he looked like a barrel almost.

And such a pain! Poor Frisky whinnied until he woke Mister Dodge and the twins, asleep in their corn-shock house in the corn field.

I don't know what they gave him, but whatever it was, it cured him. One thing I do know, however, Frisky got a good lecture and he won't touch sweet apples and water again in a hurry. Or anything else he doesn't know about.

A Thought

A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband; but she that maketh ashamed is as rottenness in his bones.—Prov. 12:4.

DO YOU REMEMBER

A YEAR AGO TODAY?

How much money have you saved since then? That's too bad, no year should be allowed to slip away without saving something. Better see me about the Fidelity Building and Loan Association of Valley City.

They have a new and safe way of handling Savings. For every $5.00 per month saved for a period of eight years ($480.00—paid in), they pay back $1000.00. Save $15.00 per month for eight years and get back $3,000.00 in cash. You do not have to die to get the benefit of your savings. This is a safer proposition than any bank can offer. Don't wait until you are out of debt, save in spite of your debts. If the accords never started we would never have any mighty oaks. Get busy.

TELEGRAM FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN

See by papers Ellington decamped. Hope you got your money out of Lackawanna before this happened.

Letter From John Alden Prescott to Sydney Carton.

That's just what I didn't do. Told Ellington to sell at the peak. This he evidently did and damn him, decamped with that Chapman fellow.

As you see, I am in New York. I have been trying to raise six thousand dollars which I must have the last of the week. I have lost fifteen thousand more which I put up on margins. The six thousand dollars I have overdrawn on my commissions.

It would be just like old Bullock, under the circumstances, to have someone examine the books, because he knows I was one of Harry's best friends. This thing is going to get very hot in the newspapers and if he does, God knows what will happen to me.

Leslie tried to tell me the other day something about Ellington but I wouldn't hear it. I've learned my lesson now, Syd, and I'll take her advice always after this—provided she doesn't advise me to dabble in stocks, for I promised myself solemnly today never to gamble in that way again.

And to think that I sent that last five hundred dollars, which in reality belonged to little Jack, to help that man make his getaway! It is a good thing I haven't met him in New York. If I had, I think I would kill him.

I haven't had much luck trying to borrow the six thousand but I have one more place to go tomorrow. It is to a man for whom I have done many favors. I have let him have money at least once when he was in a similar plight.

I'm beginning to think, Syd, that I am more of a rotter than I ever dreamed. Will you tell me why a man with a beautiful wife and a dear baby as I have—speaking of the baby only piles my remorse to higher heights—should get into such a mess as this?

I was beginning to think that I didn't deserve to be married and now I know it.

With you could come down to New York while I am here but probably that isn't feasible because if I get that money in the morning I shall start home at once. Every minute I am away from the office I am expecting a telegram from Bullock saying that he knows what I have been doing and that I am to come home and get my blue ticket.

Just what I am going to tell Leslie I don't know. In fact, at the present moment I know less than I ever did before in my life and you know that is needless.

are going to try and bury have done some more for the Nonpartisan league than all the rest."

J. A. Gray of Lisbon said he had left out of the factional fight, adding that "there is a factional fight in appearance." He declared the resolution was a compromise resolution and it was up to both sides to live in.

Withdraw It

Mr. Vogel, seeing that discussion as growing bitter asked that the resolution be withdrawn. It was then taken back in committee and worked.

When he finally came back, just before adjournment, he began his remarks by saying there are two factions in the Nonpartisan League. One faction, he said, did not want Coughlin or Lemke under any consideration. The other faction didn't want him "crucified."

Vogel said the compromise resolution was acceptable to both sides. It has changed only slightly, to say that all relations with the national executive committee were severed and that the state executive committee could be recognized as the sole authority.

Following unanimous adoption Senator Frazier, Chairman Church and others congratulated the convention on its harmonious result.

Fight On Canadian Wheat

A fight arose on a resolution which, as presented by the committee, condemned the board of management of the state mill and elevator at Grand Forks, asserting the board was trying to hamper E. Austin manager and pledged support; also it condemned buying ing flour for state institutions from "Cannibal of Commerce mills."

Roy Frazier of Divide moved as an amendment that "we further condemn the purchase of Canadian wheat." He accepted an amendment to make it foreign wheat. Then debate began.

A. A. Liederbach objected. He declared that "if we pledge support to the manager of the mill and he found it advantageous to buy Canadian wheat and we adopt a resolution condemning it we are not pledging him support."

Another speaker declared keen competition had forced Mr. Austin to make a superior grade of flour and he had to buy Canadian wheat to do it.

Rep. Mrs. Minnie Craig said that a manager for the mill had been hired and "now you are up to old tricks, trying to tell him how to run it."

A viva voce vote resulted in the Frazier amendment being voted down, but when division was called for, discussion was resumed.

It appeared that the convention would support the purchase of Canadian wheat until Congressman J. H. Sinclair arose and declared that the convention was trying to hand Mr. Austin a little taffy on the resolution. He asserted that the mill was established to buy North Dakota wheat. "If he has to buy Canadian wheat to save six cents a bushel then we'd better go out of business," the Congressman said.

Alfred Dale offered a substitute motion which condemned the management of the mill board, left out mention of Austin's name and condemned purchase of Canadian wheat. It was carried but with many voting "no."

Debate On Paper

There also was debate when amendment was asked to the resolution declaring support for the state weekly newspaper to be established.

A. A. Liederbach said he did not want the delegates to pledge to buy stock until they saw what this policy would be. The convention finally adopted a strong resolution of support for the paper.

Alfred Knutson, offered in a long resolution the platform of the Federated Farmer-Labor Party.

Judge Grace rose to object, declaring part of it was un-American.

"You have no right to take one man's farm away and give it to another," he said.

The discussion did not proceed and the resolution was voted down.

Previous to the session on resolutions, several men made talks.

E. G. Larson of Aneta attacked the federal reserve system, declaring that the bankers fell into the biggest trap ever set for them in supporting it.

He declared things would not be righted until Henry Ford was elected president and the monetary system revised.

There was some applause at the mention of Ford's name.

J. A. Gray of Lisbon, speaking, mentioned Ford and a laugh resulted and then when he proposed Senator LaFollette for President there were loud cheers.

A. A. Liederbach said that the Standard Oil and other big trusts had made money by controlling production. He said that California fruit growers were making money by limiting production. He urged that this action be taken in the spring wheat belt.

are going to try and bury have done in times more for the Nonpartisan cause than all the rest."

J. A. Gray of Lisbon said he had opted out of the factional fight, adding that "there is a factional fight is apparent." He declared the resolution was a compromise resolution and it was up to both sides to live in it.

Withdraw It

Mr. Vogel, seeing that discussion as growing bitter asked that the resolution be withdrawn. It was taken back in committee and withdrawn.

When he finally came back, just before adjournment, he began his remarks by saying there are two factions in the Nonpartisan League. One faction, he said, did not want Winley or Lemke under any consideration.

The other faction didn't want them "crucified."

Vogel said the compromise resolution was acceptable to both sides. It was changed only slightly, to say that all relations with the national executive committee were severed and that the state executive committee could be recognized as the sole authority.

Following unanimous adoption of the resolution, Chairman Church and others congratulated the convention on its harmonious result.

Fight On Canadian Wheat

A fight arose on a resolution which, as presented by the committee, condemned the board of managers management of the state mill and elevator at Grand Forks, asserting the board was trying to hamper E. Austin manager and pledged support; also it condemned buying flour for state institutions from "Chamber of Commerce mills."

Roy Frazier of Divide moved as an amendment that "we further condemn the purchase of Canadian wheat." He accepted an amendment to make it foreign wheat. Then debate began.

A. A. Liederbach objected. He declared that "if we pledge support to the manager of the mill and he found it advantageous to buy Canadian wheat and we adopt a resolution condemning it we are not pledging him support."

Another speaker declared keen competition had forced Mr. Austin to make a superior grade of flour and he had to buy Canadian wheat to do it.

Rep. Mrs. Mintie Craig said that a manager for the mill had been hired and "now you are up to old tricks, trying to tell him how to run it."

A viva voce vote resulted in the Frazier amendment being voted down, but when division was called for, discussion was resumed.

It appeared that the convention would support the purchase of Canadian wheat until Congressman J. H. Sinclair arose and declared that the convention was trying to hand Mr. Austin a little taffy on the resolution. He asserted that the mill was established to buy North Dakota wheat. "If he has to buy Canadian wheat to save six cents a bushel then we'd better go out of business," the Congressman said.

Alfred Dale offered a substitute motion which condemned the management of the mill board, left out mention of Austin's name and condemned purchase of Canadian wheat. It was carried but with many voting "no."

Debate On Paper

There also was debate when amendment was asked to the resolution declaring support for the state weekly newspaper to be established.

A. A. Liederbach said he did not want the delegates to pledge to buy stock until they saw what the policy would be. The convention finally adopted a strong resolution of support for the paper.

Alfred Knutson offered in a long resolution the platform of the Federated Farmer-Labor Party.

Judge Grace rose to object, declaring part of it was un-American. "You have no right to take one man's farm away and give it to another," he said.

The discussion did not proceed and the resolution was voted down.

Previous to the session on resolutions, several men made talks.

E. G. Larson of Aneta attacked the federal reserve system, declaring that the bankers fell into the biggest trap ever set for them in supporting it.

He declared things would not be righted until Henry Ford was elected president and the monetary system revised.

There was some applause at the mention of Ford's name.

J. A. Gray of Lisbon, speaking, mentioned Ford and a laugh resulted and then when he proposed Senator LaFollette for President there were loud cheers.

A. A. Liederbach said that the Standard Oil and other "big trusts" had made money by controlling production. He said that California fruit growers were making money by limiting production. He urged that this action be taken in the spring wheat belt.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

America Has Never Been "Licked"—
Except by the Flames.
How Long Are We Going to Stand for It?
It's Up to YOU.

UNDER YOUR FEET
Charles Darwin found 53,000 "fishworms" in the average acre of British soil. The number was around half a million an acre where the soil was exceptionally rich.
Right now is the busiest season of the year for earthworms. Wherever the autumn winds are making withered leaves flutter to the earth, our old friend fishworm is dragging the dead leaves into his tunnels, there to rot and enrich the soil.

Professor J. Arthur Thomson, in "The Outline of Science," records that, on the average, the fishworms in an acre of ground pass 10 tons of soil through their bodies each year—and they have been doing this for many millions of years. They cover the surface at the rate of three inches in 15 years, and they are thus continually circulating the soil. An age-long ploughing field, which was so thickly covered with hard flints that it was known as The Stony Field, was left untouched for 30 years, after which a horse could gallop from one end to the other without ever striking a stone.

Darwin wrote this: "The plough is one of the most ancient and most valuable of man's inventions; but long before he existed the land was, in fact, regularly ploughed by earthworms. It may be doubted whether there are many other animals which have played so important a part in the history of the earth as have these lowly organized creatures."

The earthworm made life on earth possible for man. We couldn't continue existing, without its assistance at preparing the soil for the food we eat and for the trees so chemically necessary in our system of air supply.
Despite the earthworm's important function in nature's scheme of things, a lot of us are surprised to learn that it has a purpose other than to be used as fish bait.

IMAGINARY ILLS
Patrolman Odell had not worked for three weeks, his left arm being paralyzed. He took his six-year-old grandson for a walk. The lad fell off a pier into the ocean at Glen Island, N. Y. Grandpa forgot he was paralyzed, dived into the water, swam to the boy and saved him.

Next day he showed up for work, paralysis cured. Grandson's peril had made him forget it.
Power of mind over matter? Partly. Another factor: The emotional shock of seeing his grandson drowning probably over-stimulated his adrenal glands and their sudden activity affected his nervous system in a way to counteract the paralysis. Take your choice of the two theories.

LIFE FORCE
Dorothy Dodge picked 246 different kinds of wild flowers during the summer, near Haverhill, Mass. A lot of us would have bet there weren't that many. It illustrates the variety of ways in which the mysterious force, life, asserts itself.
There are over 200,000 species or groups of insects. They and the wild flowers and man and all other forms of life are made of practically the same substances—the elements of earth. The differences are in the life force, invisible.

SHORTAGE IS CYCLIC
Herbert Spencer proved that historic events have a rhythmic motion—travel in cycles. For instance, there's a big war about every 50 years.

Money, it seems, also has cycles. The Philadelphia mint is working at top speed. There's a shortage of pennies, nickels and quarters. The shortage is cyclic. Last one was in the autumn of 1921. No one knows why small change suddenly ran short. Probably means that the public is spending heavily—breaking a lot of bills.

ALL DUDES NOW
It took 30 years to get rid of the word "dude," whereby the cleanly dressed man was frowned upon either as effeminate or as having a hare-brain. So comments Fred Volland, president of National Association of Retail Clothiers.
We're all dudes now, on occasion. That ends the ridicule that shadowed the fancy dresser years ago. The scoffers became dudes. Advertising did it.

NEW CURRENCY
The bodenmark is Germany's new currency unit. It's worth 358 grams of fine gold, backed by mortgages on city land and farms.

Money based on land values is something new under the sun. Should make a sound currency system, for "land values" is just another name for human productiveness. The more we work, more valuable becomes the land on which we toil—farm, factory, office, home or store.

SCARCITY A HYPNOTIST
A Great Auk, or nearly $1600 in London. It was laid by a Great Auk, now extinct. Only 70 of these eggs exist, which explain the high price. Scarcity is a hypnotist. For all useful purposes, the egg of a Great Auk is worth less than a plain chicken egg—fresh out of the coop, or even from cold storage.

After our actual necessities are supplied, value is largely imaginary—matter of self-hypnotism or hypnosis of others.

ECONOMICAL AMERICANS
Clothing makers check up and find that, for every 100 American men, only 52 new hats and 62 new suits were sold last year. Also, only 18 out of every 100 men ever wear kid gloves.

This explodes the myth that we're a nation of spend-thrifts. Or maybe we are so busy buying autos and "gas" that his wardrobe suffers.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of the Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important questions being discussed in the press of the day.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY

The report from Blue Earth county showing that the dairy industry there has almost doubled in proportion the last few years is typical of nearly all Minnesota. Not long ago Minnesota was famed as an agricultural and mining state. Its iron ore output held an undisputed leadership. Next came the grain products of its fertile farms.
But now iron ore, wheat and corn have all given way to the dairy cow.
This evolution has been a leading factor in making Minnesota one of the most prosperous states in the Union. It is sure to have the further effect of continuing prosperity, and making certain a steady income throughout the year in all rural districts where wideawake farmers realize the asset—we might say the blessing—the pure-bred dairy cow is to them.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Frisky Colt looked around curiously. He had been left all alone in Squeaky-Moo Land for the first time, and he didn't like it.
His mother had been driven off to town by Mrs. Brown to do some marketing, and the other horses were hauling in logs for the winter. Frisky played with Crazy Colt for a while, but soon got tired and quit, for Crazy's name should have been Frisky, for no matter what happened he kept running to his mother and telling tales.

So Frisky wandered around and looked at everything with his great curious eyes and thought what a queer world it was.
"Oh, shucks!" he thought. "I guess I'll go over and watch the pigs. Perhaps I'll get an idea."
So he trotted over on his long legs to the place where the pigs were, and stuck his long nose over the fence.
"Hi, Twisty Tail and Piggy Wig and Saucy Snout were discussing things to eat."
Piggy Wig stuck up for sour milk and Twisty Tail put in a good word for sweet clover, but Saucy Snout said that of all things in this fine world he loved apples the best.
"Oh, my!" he sighed with a loud grunt. "If only I wasn't so fat I could squeeze through that narrow place in the fence and get into the orchard. And I'd eat all the apples on the ground!"

"There! I knew I'd get an idea!" nodded Frisky. "If I call out this and I'll certainly squeeze through that opening. Funny I never thought of it before! I love apples, too! I've tasted them several times." Off he trotted, and just as he expected, he got through the opening without a mite of trouble. And the ground was covered with windfall apples, much to his delight.
So he started in to eat. And he ate and he ate and he ate until he thought he would burst.

"My goodness!" he said suddenly. "The sun's going down and I'd better go home. And I'm thirsty, too. I'll stop at the horse trough and take a big drink."
All of which he did.
That night he started to swell. And he kept on swelling till he looked like a barrel almost.
And such a pain! Poor Frisky whinnied until he woke Mister Dodger and the Twins, asleep in their corn-shock house in the corn field. But whatever it was, it cured him. One thing I do know, however, Frisky got a good lecture and he won't touch sweet apples and water again in a hurry. Or anything else he doesn't know about.

A Thought

A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband; but she that maketh shame is as rottenness in his bones.—Prov. 12:4.

To be man's mate was woman born, and in obeying nature she best serves the purpose of heaven.—Schiller.

DO YOU REMEMBER

How much money have you saved since then? That's too bad, no year should be allowed to slip away without saving something. Better see me about the Fidelity Building and Loan Association of Valley City. They have a new and safe way of handling savings. For every $5.00 per month saved for a period of eight years ($480.00—paid in) they pay back $1000.00. Save $15.00 per month for eight years and get back $3,000.00 in cash. You do not have to die to get the benefit of your savings. This is a safer proposition than any bank can offer. Don't wait until you are out of debt, save in spite of your debts. If the scores never started we would never have any mighty oaks. Get busy.

TELEGRAM FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESIDENT.

See by papers Ellington decamped. Hope you got your money out of Lackawanna before this happened.

Letter From John Alden Prescott to Sydney Carton.

That's just what I didn't do. Told Ellington to sell at the peak. This he evidently did and damn him, decamped with that Chapman woman. As you see, I am in New York. I have been trying to raise six thousand dollars which I must have the last of the week. I have lost fifteen thousand more which I put up on margins. The six thousand dollars I have overdrawn on my commissions.

It would be just like old Bullock, under the circumstances, to have someone examine the books, because he knows I was one of Harry's best friends. This thing is going to get very hot in the newspapers and if he does, God knows what will happen to me.

Leslie tried to tell me the other day something about Ellington but I wouldn't hear it. I've learned my lesson now, Syd, and I'll take her advice always after this—provided she doesn't advise me to dabble in stocks, for I promised myself solemnly today never to gamble in that way again.

And to think that I sent that last five hundred dollars, which in reality belonged to little Jack, to help that man make his getaway! It is a good thing I haven't met him in New York. If I had, I think I would kill him.

I haven't had much luck trying to borrow the six thousand but I have one more place to go tomorrow. It is to a man for whom I have done many favors. I have let him have money at least once when he was in a similar plight.

I'm beginning to think, Syd, that I am more of a rotter than I ever dreamed. Will you tell me why a man with a beautiful wife and a dear baby as I have—speaking of the baby only piles my remorse to higher heights—should get into such a mess as this?

I was beginning to think that I didn't deserve to be married and now I know it.

With you could come down to New York while I am here but probably that isn't feasible because if I get that money in the morning I shall start home at once. Every minute I am away from the office I am expecting a telegram from Bullock saying that he knows what I have been doing and that I am to come home and get my blue ticket.

Just what I am going to tell Leslie I don't know. In fact, at the present moment I know less than I ever did before in my life and you know that is needless.

JACK.

Bonham Brothers Optometrists

The economic loss to the nation by reason of visual defects cannot be estimated, but it must be enormous, and the subject deserves more attention than has been given it.

Physical fitness is impossible with any appreciable error of vision. Efficiency is tremendously curtailed in those whose sight is below par. And we repeat, in millions of cases these defects are possessed by individuals who are not aware of the fact.

That indicates the necessity for Optometrists acquainting the public with the full scope of their profession, and the advisability of many persons who have never done so, presenting themselves to the Optometrist for a consideration of their cases.
To be continued next Monday.

to their guest, Mrs. S. B. Toney of Forest City, Ia., Monday evening.

RAINS CHECK FOREST FIRES

Hope Seen for Quenching of Flames Without Further Damage

St. Paul, Oct. 11.—With reports of a brisk downpour of rain last night in some forest fire sections of northern Minnesota and the expectation of a general rain before the wind gains in velocity forestry officials here today were optimistic over forest and brush fire conditions.

Rain was reported in the Warroad and Bemidji and Superior regions and the fires there are reported virtually under control. Likewise the situation in the Duluth district is reported "fairly good" with a heavy fog hanging over the section and indications of a heavy rain.

The greatest danger of a general spread of the flames is now centered in the Two Harbors-Forbes district but with a large number of fire-fighters concentrating their efforts here. Forestry officials do not expect the fire to get beyond control. Rain also is expected in this section.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL.
Ibanc, with "The Four Horsemen," laid bare the horrors of the Great War; H. G. Wells, with "Mr. Britling Sees It Through," dramatized the spirit of England's soldiers at Armageddon; Harriet Beecher Stowe, with "Uncle Tom's Cabin," dealt crushing blows to slavery; and Daniel Carson Goodman has belabored the fads and conceits of modern man and woman in his brilliantly dramatic photoplay "Has the World Gone Mad?" which comes to the Capitol theater tonight. Mr. Goodman doesn't hesitate to say that he has a message for his public. But at no time does he permit his production to become preachy. There is no tendency to sermonize. It is straightforward, clean-cut entertainment of stupendous power and beauty with one of the most illustrious casts ever assembled for a motion picture. The stars who take part are Robert Edison, Charles Richman, Hedda Hopper, Mary Alden, Vincent Coleman, Elinor Fair and others. J. Searle Dawley directed the production under the personal supervision of Mr. Goodman.

I have purchased the Herb Arnts Barber shop on Broadway, and will continue to give the same service as before. We specialize in children's and ladies' hair bobbing. Fully experienced barber in charge. Carl E. Younggren.

dividual column on the ballot with the designation "Nonpartisan League" and in so doing created the Nonpartisan League party.

"We are now the second party on the ticket," said Hamilton, "if they rule it is a party and we stay in the Republican column the opposition can fill up the Nonpartisan League Party column and confuse our voters."

Sen. B. F. Baker said that thousands of people will vote the Republican ticket straight, and they cannot be changed.

Wants Notes Paid

In a speech, Senator Baker also alluded to the league in general, and in particular to the many accommodations given by league farmers for various enterprises, though he said he himself had had no stock in the Towley cooperative store or similar enterprises.

"Nothing hurts me so much as to go to a friend and find he is losing his home because he signed an accommodation note to help the Nonpartisan league," said Mr. Baker.

"Soon or later you have got to make these good. If you are not big enough to take care of your neighbors you are not big enough to govern the state of North Dakota."

Senator Baker also alluded to the league as a public enemy in the late President Harding and his associates, adding that he and the league had disagreed with him on many things.

St. Francis of Crosby, who headed the committee which referred the independent election measure passed by the last legislature, discussing the question of whether the Nonpartisan League was a party under the law, said that if the Democratic party through failing to have a candidate for Governor at the last election, the independents would have accomplished their purpose of having alignment between two parties—the Republican and Nonpartisan League parties.

Rep. Frank Vogel of McLean county, who the next order of business was reached, moved that "we separate ourselves from the national organization," adding the question was almost moot because the national Nonpartisan organization was not functioning.

Sen. B. F. Baker presented the deliberations of a group of legislators with Senator Frazier in another room, on the question of a newspaper. It was decided, he said, to recommend a weekly newspaper and not a daily, the money—about $4,000—in Senator Frazier's hands for a daily, authority having been given by the subscribers.

To Have Weekly

A temporary committee was formed to incorporate and it was finally decided that a weekly paper should be published, the incorporation should be cooperative so that each shareholder would have but one vote, and that a board of directors chosen by the shareholders should control the paper; the editor, however to be chosen by the Nonpartisan League State Executive committee.

The committee to incorporate was S. S. Mc Donald, J. H. Bloom, Roy Frazier, Mrs. Minnie Craig, Mr. Dale.

T. H. H. Thorsen urged that the proposition be thoroughly investigated as to cost, saying that "most of the farmers papers are hopelessly insolvent."

J. H. Bloom was called to discuss the proposition. He outlined the bid of a newspaper plant to publish the paper. He related a remark made by A. A. Lieberback previously, declaring the Fargo Courier-News former league organ, which was sold as a

FARM PRICES ON UPGRADE

U. S. Bureau of Agriculture Reports Statistics

RAINS CHECK FOREST FIRES

Hope Seen for Quenching of Flames Without Further Damage

St. Paul, Oct. 11.—With reports of a brisk downpour of rain last night in some forest fire sections of northern Minnesota and the expectation of a general rain before the wind gains in velocity forestry officials here today were optimistic over forest and brush fire conditions.

Rain was reported in the Warroad and Soudette Superior regions and the fires there are reported virtually under control. Likewise the situation in the Duluth district is reported "fairly good" with a heavy fog hanging over the section and indications of a heavy rain.

The greatest danger of a general spread of the flames is now centered in the Two Harbors-Forbes district but with a large number of fire-fighters concentrating their efforts here, forestry officials do not expect the fire to get beyond control. Rain also is expected in this section.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL
Ibanez, with "The Four Horsemen," laid bare the horrors of the Great War. H. G. Wells, with "Mr. Britling Sees It Through," dramatized the spirit of England's soldiers. Armageddon; Harriet Beecher Stowe, with "Uncle Tom's Cabin," dealt crushing blows to slavery, and Daniel Carson Goodman has elaborated the fads and conceits of modern man and woman in his brilliantly dramatic photoplay "Has the World Gone Mad?" which comes to the Capitol theater tonight. Mr. Goodman doesn't hesitate to say that he has a message for his public. But at no time does he permit his production to become preachy. There is no tendency to sermonize. It is straightforward, clean-cut entertainment.

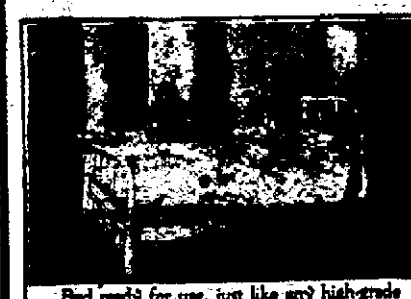

I have purchased the Herb Arnts barber shop on Broadway, and will continue to give the same service as before. We specialize in children's and ladies' hair bobbing. Fully experienced barber in charge. Carl E. Younggren.

HOSKINS-MEYER

Bonham Brothers Optometrists

The economic loss to the nation by reason of visual defects cannot be estimated, but it must be enormous, and the subject deserves more attention than has been given it. Physical fitness is impossible with any appreciable error of vision. Efficiency is tremendously curtailed in those whose sight is below par. And we repeat, in millions of cases these defects are possessed by individuals who are not aware of the fact. That indicates the necessity for Optometrists acquainting the public with the full scope of their profession, and the advisability of many persons who have never done so, presenting themselves to the Optometrist for a consideration of their cases. To be continued next Monday.

7 KILLED IN SCHOOL BUS

Pennsylvania Passenger Train Hits Bus at Grade Crossing

Ravenna, Ohio, Oct. 11.—Seven school children were killed and one man and three school children seriously injured when Pennsylvania passenger train No. 39 struck a school bus on a grade crossing near here. The children were killed about one mile from the school which they attended at Rootstown, four miles from here. The dead thus far identified are: Mildred Shaw, 11; Verna Shaw, Harold Shaw, 9; Thelma Benschoff and Margaret Kuntz. Lawrence Shaw, brother of the three Shaw children, was badly hurt as was Lewis Kline, the driver of the bus. Stanley Benschoff, brother of the dead Benschoff girl, and A. Wansik, also were injured.

Shoots Man For Stealing Grain

Rolette, N. D., Oct. 10.—Peter Lemieux, farmer of this vicinity, is in the hospital here with a bullet in his head as a result of a shooting affair alleged to have taken place at the farm of David Fletcher last Wednesday morning, and according to physicians he will live, but one eye penetrated by the bullet was taken out.

David Fletcher confessed to the shooting, but claims he acted in self defense and for the protection of his property. Fletcher's story, the officials say, is the recital of grievances due to the repeated theft of grain from his farm. He claims that grain was taken from his granary on Monday night and that he determined to protect his property. Early Wednesday morning he went to the granary with a revolver and found a man there loading up a wagon with grain. The man, he claims, was Lemieux, who upon seeing him sprang from the wagon, pulled a gun and opened fire on Fletcher who returned the fire shooting the man in the head. The Lemieux horses were also wounded by bullets. Lemieux then walked to the home of Peter Malo who brought him to the hospital here.

Stops Man From Moving Building

Anamoose, N. D., Oct. 11.—Judge John C. Lowe in district court at Minot announced his decision to issue a temporary injunction, restraining L. A. Rogensch and Mrs. John Leder both of this place, from removing a building purchased by the former from the latter, from premises situated in the city of Anamoose.

Counsel for the city of Anamoose had previously secured an order to show cause why such an injunction should not be issued, the municipality contending that the special assessment taxes on the building are unpaid. Funke & Campbell of Minot represent the city and E. R. Sinkler appears for the other litigants.

FLYERS WANT TO INVESTIGATE AIR OF MOON

United States Army Air Service Has Set Heart on Getting to the Ceiling

By NEA Service

Dayton, O., Oct. 11.—A shot at the moon!

Ten miles above the earth's surface—ten miles away from the world we know—where the temperature is terrifically low and the atmosphere so thin a human being cannot live without artificial aid.

This is the goal the United States Army Air Service has its heart set on. Uncle Sam wants to determine the "absolute ceiling" for airplanes and one of his most distinguished flyers, the intrepid Lieut. John A. Macready, who has an official altitude record of 34,500 feet that stood two years, is going to try to find it.

The new official record is held by Sadi Lecoq, the Frenchman, who reached 35,100 feet last August, but Macready, famous also for his non-stop coast-to-coast flight with Lieut. Kelly, has an unofficial record of 40,800 feet.

The ceiling may be higher; at any rate, Macready is getting ready to shoot for it some time this fall at McCook Field here and will use the same Le Pere plane he used before.

With this in view, Dr. Sanford A. Moss has perfected a new super-charger, or engine oxygen booster, which will make possible the attainment of higher altitude records than are at present known. In his last altitude Macready used a Moss charger, but the inventor says the new one, which was built by the General Electric Co., beats the other "eight different ways."

The supercharger is a small contrivance mounted just back of the propeller blade on the front end of the Liberty motor. It is operated from the red-hot exhaust from the motor and weights about 140 pounds. At 35,000 feet it will increase the power of the Liberty motor by at least 280 horsepower.

Why all the anxiety and all the rivalry between different nations to reach the airplane ceiling?

For two reasons: In time of war the highest flying plane has the advantage over the enemy, for the plan which can hover above the others generally is the victor. Being able to maneuver at will, it can keep out of the enemy's range and more easily direct fire at the pilot below.

In time of peace there is commercial aviation. Many flyers predict the day when globe-circling flights

Fire Destroys Barn and Horses

LaMoure, N. D., Oct. 11.—A fire at the farm home of Mrs. Rosa May, near here, burned a large barn, a quantity of hay, and six horses, last week. The loss is estimated at $3,500. The same evening, the fire department was called to the round house where a car, owned by Alvin Alexson, was on fire. The car was badly damaged.

KEEP BEES IN CELLAR.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 11.—"Most beekeepers in North Dakota keep winter bees in cellars and this is the best practice until we know more about wintering bees out-of-doors in this latitude," is the statement of Dr. R. L. Webster of the North Dakota Agricultural college, secretary of the state bee-keepers association. "A few bee-keepers have had good success wintering in packed hives, or in large wintering cases holding four hives each. One of these quadruple cases was used successfully carried out last winter by the experiment station a Fargo.

JEKYLL-HYDE WOMAN IS BAFFLING

Escapes From Prison and Appears in Silks and Jewels

STRANGER THAN FICTION

By Milton Bronner
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 11.—After having worn the coarse ugly uniform that England puts on its female criminals, after having reddened her hands with the work that women have to do in English prisons, Helen Vera MacLaren ran away from her past, ran just 60 miles away, and blossomed out in society, radiant in conversation, courted and petted by society leaders, and presented to the royal family itself.

It is one of the most amazing things ever recorded in a British court, one of the things that proves that truth is always stranger and more dramatic than fiction. A regular Baffler, this woman was also a regular female Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

Two-Sided Nature
There was the one side of her that members of the great English families knew—beautiful, charming, an accomplished dancer, a social success. And then there was the other side of her that the police knew—the woman who simply could not keep her hands off other people's property. Her husband, with a staggering fortune in court here and for the first time heard the real story of his wife's past. Up to that time it had been a sealed book to him. And so great was his love for her that, her lawyer announced, he had fully pardoned her, and when she is released from prison, he will help her patch together the fragments of her life.

She was arraigned here on three separate charges to all of which she pleaded guilty—stealing £48 from one wealthy woman and a fur coat valued at $60 from another, and finally stealing clothing valued at £42 from a local shop.

From Respectable Family
It was stated she came of a respectable family which was not very well off. The girl had expensive tastes and stole to satisfy them. The police grimly put in evidence the following record:

1907—Charged in Greenwich police court with stealing and was bound over.

1908—Charged in Westminster court with stealing books and bound over.

1907—Charged in West Kent Assizes with stealing jewelry and given three months imprisonment.

Released from prison, she went to the south of England. She took up her residence in Cowes, Isle of Wight, where all the big yacht races took place.

Her good looks, her seeming wealth, her undoubted social graces, soon brought her into contact and friendship with some of the most important society people in Great Britain. Through them she was admitted to the Royal Yacht Squadron Club, the most important social leaders and important millionaires belong to this organization. It is about the hardest club in England to get into.

But she managed to get into it. And shortly after she had passed the sacred threshold, the members were horrified to see the fair Helen arraigned in 1910 in Hants Assizes on the charge of theft of jewels at Cowes and given 12 months imprisonment.

Once more, after her release, she ran away from her past and built herself a new career. When the great war broke out, she opened a canteen at Andover and did such splendid work that she was decorated by the king. Nobody associated her with the jail-bird.

Romance Shattered
It was during this period that a handsome and wealthy young officer met her, pursued a whirlwind wooing and married her. He knew nothing about her save what she had chosen to tell him. And they lived happily together here at this famous seaside resort, until the old itching for other people's property became too strong for her.

Her lawyer in his speech to the court thus summed her up:
"She is a woman with a moral kink. I am not in a position to put her before you as a person mentally insane, but when she was up for trial once before the prison doctor gave his opinion that she was not responsible for her actions."

Notwithstanding this plea, the court sentenced her to six months' imprisonment.

GRAND JURY IS CALLED

Judge Cooley Will Convene
One For Fargo Bank Probe

Grand Forks, Oct. 11.—Judge C. M. Cooley last night issued an order for the calling of a grand jury in Cass county at the time of the term of court to be convened November 6. The call is in response to a petition presented to Judge Cooley last week by Attorney-General George Shafer and States Attorney H. E. Horner of Cass county, asking that a grand jury be called to consider matters pertaining to the closed Scandinavian-American Bank in Fargo.

RECOVERS FROM CROUP
"My boy had a very bad attack of croup. Tried everything but nothing did him much good. Then I used Foley's Honey and Tar and he not only recovered quickly but he has had no trouble since," writes Mrs. William Sims, Burlington, Wyoming. Coughs, colds and croup quickly relieved with Foley's Honey and Tar, the largest selling cough medicine in the world. Free from opiates—in ingredients printed on the wrapper.

WHEN OKLAHOMA WENT TO THE POLLS

Thousands of minute men were recruited from citizen police to guard election booths during the referendum that voted to assemble a special session of the Legislature to consider impeachment charges against Governor J. C. Walton, for his declaration of martial law throughout the state in warring on the Ku Klux Klan. Photo shows a typical group of citizen guards, fully armed in defiance of military order that the election should not proceed.

Shoots Man For Stealing Grain

Rolette, N. D., Oct. 10.—Peter Lemieux, farmer of this vicinity, is in the hospital here with a bullet in his head as a result of a shooting affair alleged to have taken place at the farm of David Fletcher last Wednesday morning, and according to physicians he will live, but one eye penetrated by the bullet was taken out.

David Fletcher confessed to the shooting, but claims he acted in self defense and for the protection of his property. Fletcher's story, the officials say, is the recital of grievances due to the repeated theft of grain from his farm. He claims that grain was taken from his granary on Monday night and that he determined to protect his property. Early Wednesday morning he went to the granary with a revolver and found a man there loading up a wagon with grain. The man, he claims, was Lemieux, who upon seeing him sprang from the wagon, pulled a gun and opened fire on Fletcher who returned the fire shooting the man in the head. The Lemieux horses were also wounded by bullets. Lemieux then walked to the home of Peter Malo who brought him to the hospital here.

United States Army Air Service Has Set Heart on Getting to the Ceiling

By NEA Service

Dayton, O., Oct. 11.—A shot at the moon! Ten miles above the earth's surface—ten miles away from the world we know—where the temperature is terrifically low and the atmosphere so thin a human being cannot live without artificial aid!

This is the goal the United States Army Air Service has its heart set on. Uncle Sam wants to determine the "absolute ceiling" for airplanes and one of his most distinguished flyers, the intrepid Lieut. John A. Macready, who set an official altitude record of 34,500 feet that stood two years, is going to try to find it.

The new official record is held by Sadi Lecoq, the Frenchman, who reached 35,100 feet last August, but Macready, famous also for his non-stop coast-to-coast flight with Lieutenant Kelly, has an unofficial record of 40,800 feet.

The ceiling may be higher; at any rate, Macready is getting ready to shoot for it some time this fall at McCook Field here and will use the same Le Pere plane he used before.

With this in view, Dr. Sanford A. Moss has perfected a new supercharger, or engine oxygen booster, which will make possible the attainment of higher altitude records than are at present known. In his last altitude Macready used a Moss charger, but the inventor says the new one, which was built by the General Electric Co., beats the other "eight different ways."

The supercharger is a small contrivance mounted just back of the propeller blade on the front end of the Liberty motor. It is operated from the red-hot exhaust from the motor and weighs about 140 pounds. As 35,000 feet it will increase the power of the Liberty motor by at least 280 horsepower.

Why all the anxiety and all the rivalry between different nations to reach the airplane ceiling?

For two reasons: In time of war the highest flying plane has the advantage over the enemy, for the plane which can hover above the enemy's maneuver at will, it can keep out of the enemy's range and more easily direct fire at the pilot below.

In time of peace there is commercial aviation. Many flyers predict the day when globe-circling flights will be common, when there will be one-day service to Europe and coast-to-coast flights of a few hours. And when that day comes, they say, flying will be done in the rarified atmosphere high above the earth, where the air offers little resistance to meteoric speed.

Fire Destroys Barn and Horses

LaMonte, N. D., Oct. 11.—A fire at the farm home of Mrs. Rosa May, near here, burned a large barn, a quantity of hay, and six horses, last week. The loss is estimated at $3,500. The same evening, the fire department was called to the house where a car owned by Alvin Alanson, was on fire. The car was badly damaged.

WHEAT PROBLEM INTERNATIONAL, DR. COULTER TELLS FARM CONGRESS; REVIEWS ENTIRE FIELD

Problem Affects Not Only The Wheat Belt But All Farmers Who Grow Wheat, Speaker Tells Congress

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 11.—That the wheat problem of the United States must be considered in its international aspects as wheat is placed on a world market, that it is a long-time problem which cannot be fully answered by but temporary relief, that the wheat problem is one which affects not only the wheat belt as such, but embraces all farmers who grow wheat, are the significant points emphasized yesterday by Dr. John Lee Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural college, in his address to assembled farmers, bankers, business men and agricultural leaders assembled at the seventeenth annual session of the International Farm Congress in Kansas City.

Urging diversified farming as a permanent remedy for the evils of the wheat situation, and the adoption of a better marketing system, the building up of consumption demands, the reorganization of production and the lowering of transportation costs, President Coulter outlined a policy which he declared to be one that would put the wheat farmer back on his feet and yet would not be tearing down one industry in order to build up another.

The address as delivered at Kansas City yesterday follows:

Problem of Wheat Belt
Any attempt to analyze the problem of the wheat growers of the United States must necessarily touch upon three phases of the subject.

First: It is not enough to review the wheat situation in the United States alone. It is necessary to note the general world situation because wheat is a non-perishable product and moves easily from nation to nation.

Second: It is not enough to review the immediate situation, the situation as it exists today. It is necessary to review the movement over a series of years, because wheat is non-perishable and large surplus amounts may be carried over from one year to another. Also wheat and wheat substitutes are so universally grown over the world that the acreage can be expanded or contracted very rapidly if producers are informed and wish to expand or contract.

Finally, there are years of extraordinary yield both high and low which may pile up surpluses or wipe them out.

Third: It is not enough to review the situation in the so-called special wheat belt or areas. It is equally necessary to review the situation throughout the country on the millions of diversified farms as well as on the much smaller number of special wheat growing farms.

International Problem
Wheat being essentially non-perishable and easy to store, grade and store, is a standard international product, especially since people all over the world give it a permanent place in their diet. All people use wheat or other cereal in the form of bread or other similar form. The United States has almost from colonial days produced more than the requirements of the people at home.

In other words, the United States has been an exporting nation. She has therefore contributed to the world supply. Her exported surplus has had to compete with the cheapest wheat from any and all of the other countries and this in turn has established the basic price for the wheat consumed at home. While there was still an abundance of free land and while immigration moved without restraint and labor was cheap, this country could compete with the world in the markets of the world.

Tariff on imports so far as wheat was concerned was merely an expression of policy and had no beneficial effect, because grain was constantly flowing out and down over the dam and never trying to climb up and in.

No More Free Land
But now free land may be considered as a matter of history and immigration is now restricted. Important items of rent or interest and of wages must now be counted in the cost of producing wheat.

Furthermore the wheat area has gradually spread from the Atlantic Coast westward until now almost all parts of the country have tried wheat and have run their course as special wheat areas. No longer are there any great stretches within the United States available to use for strictly wheat growing purposes. Lower yields due to many causes must also be considered in the increased cost of production per bushel.

It would seem quite definite that there are no longer any large special wheat areas in the United States which can compete with the world market, on account of such items as rent, interest, wages, transportation, high cost of all other items entering into production and low yields. It may be another quarter of a century or even longer before special wheat growing areas in other parts of the world will have run their course. In the meantime the situation within the United States is perfectly clear. That is to say there are few if any large stretches where specialized wheat growing can now be maintained at world market prices.

World Supply and Demand
At the present time and with the present general level of wheat prices over the world, the people of the world seem able to utilize all of the wheat produced. The reason for this is that wheat is now, in general, away back in the wheat producing districts on the farms, only slightly if any above feeding values. In other words, when wheat is worth only 60 cents a bushel or 1 cent a pound, a ton of wheat—2000 pounds—will bring only $20.

Central markets of the United States at the present time are offering $20 per ton or 1 cent per pound for good timothy and even $25 per ton or 1-4 cents per pound for good alfalfa hay. If wheat should bring 1-4 cents back on the farm this should be 75 cents, and there is much wheat moving for less than this.

While this situation exists over the world in general there is no danger that any tremendous quantity will be carried over—first, because enough farmers in the world will great spring wheat belts but also on the general farms of the nation.

A government and a people who will ask special groups such as farmers are to make such a sacrifice during a period of war could very well show their appreciation at the close of the war, at least as a short-time policy with proper warning, so that farmers might be able to re-organize their farming operation to sound peace-time basis. It would be surprising to me if the farmers of this country would support any state or federal administration which failed to thus deal fairly with them. It is true that a succeeding administration of an opposite party might equally fail to do adequate justice but at least the farmers would have expressed themselves in a language which is understood best by those in public life.

use the wheat as feed and enough other farmers will stop raising wheat and raise timothy, clover or alfalfa or some other product which might be used in comparison.

Price at World Minimum
Thus it may be said that the price of wheat has reached a general minimum for the world and no extraordinary surplus is likely to be carried over so long as the market for poultry and eggs, pork, beef and other dairy products, wool, etc., remains firm. In other words, while live stock products maintain the present general level wheat price cannot go farthest down or wheat will be fed to livestock in large quantities and farmers will turn to the production of feed of different kinds.

But, as noted above, specialized wheat growing is impossible at the present world prices. In general over the United States, because of labor shortage, high wages, the high cost of everything else entering into wheat production, and the fact that free rent is a matter of history, either rent or interest must now be counted in as part of the cost. These facts together with low yields make wheat growing in specialized districts or belts unprofitable with the present world market.

Let us frankly face the fact that there is no possibility of raising the world's market except when there is a short crop for the world as a whole. It is unthinkable that the nations of the earth could get together. In fact the consumers of the world want if any thing lower prices rather than higher.

Cannot Raise Price
Since it is inconceivable that the world price can be raised without a world shortage, and since wheat cannot be produced on the present price basis, in specialized wheat growing belts in the United States we face clearly two alternatives. These are—first, we must either dump our surplus wheat produced on American farms on to the world market at world prices and force American consumers to make up the loss—thus make wheat growing profitable under these circumstances, or we must stop raising wheat as a specialized form of farm operation over great stretches of the country.

It is unthinkable that our farmers will try to compete with the world unless they are willing to forego all of the comforts of modern citizenship or live the lives of peons or serfs. We do not wish for this condition in our country, even if farmers were willing to live in this way. We have therefore clearly before us the two practical alternatives.

Adopt Long-time View.
American people, I believe, would not be milling as a long-time or permanent policy to agree to supporting an agricultural program which contemplated over-production at losing prices, especially if the American people were asked to carry the losses. If on the average we produced two hundred million bushels more than our requirements at a loss of 60 cents per bushel it would be a loss of one hundred million dollars per year.

If these two hundred million bushels were sold at world prices and American consumers were asked to make up this loss of one hundred million dollars either through taxation or by paying higher prices for their bread, I am satisfied that the American people would not agree to the policy. As a matter of long-time view, therefore, it is hopeless to think in terms of continuing large special wheat belts.

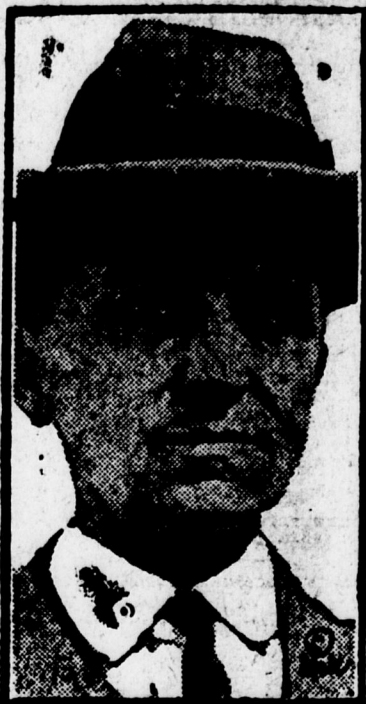

As a matter of temporary relief during a period of reorganization and readjustment in farming in the special wheat belts, I have for three years been pleading with our people and our government to re-establish the United States Grain Corporation to carry on business in somewhat the same manner as many manufacturing and other corporations do.

Sell on World Market.
That is to say, sell the American surplus on the world market and then bring the home market up to a point equal to the world market plus tariff and transportation costs. There is no doubt but what this is a thoroughly practical and possible plan if acceptable to the American people as a temporary expedient. After the great war between the states during the sixties our national currency fell to a point far below the desired standard value which we consider par. Our government set a definite date a few years in advance and brought the value of paper and other circulating medium up to a fair exchange basis with gold.

Time after time in the history of peoples, governments have resorted to a temporary expediency in order that no class of the people and no set of institutions should suffer. It is not an unfair request at this time, and has not been for the past three years, to constantly plead with our government and the American people to save the wheat belts of this country from complete ruin and bankruptcy.

This position seems all the more reasonable and sound in view of the fact that the present situation is almost entirely, if not entirely, brought upon us by the official calling of our own government and people to the farmers to develop wheat as a war measure. Not only the solve the problem of the wheat farmer by reducing his taxes.

While taxes are high, in fact unreasonably and unnecessarily high, it should be pointed out that taxes are a comparatively insignificant item in the cost of producing a bushel of wheat. I believe I see before me a wave of public sentiment rising on the horizon which within the next decade or two will wipe away, or at least consolidate hundreds upon hundreds of municipal state and national commissions and boards.

Taxes Not the Solution
Taxes can and should be reduced both local, state and national but this alone would not solve the farmer's problem or contribute in large measure to this end. There are those who point to transportation charges as being beyond all reason. It is perfectly clear that transportation is at the present time adding up a large share of the price received by the grower for his product, but all public records seem to indicate that transportation companies are not making excessive profits, unless, indeed, we go back to the original issue of stocks, bonds and other securities upon which we are at the present time paying interest in the form of freight rates.

But if we attack these values must we not at the same time, attack values of all properties in the cities, towns and villages and the values of farm lands as well. Indeed the entire basis of our American system of private ownership of property must stand or fall and therefore let us recognize that there are in general no excessive profits being made by those who have investments in transportation systems if our public reports are to be relied upon. It is useless to attempt to solve one problem, the problem of our wheat belt farmers, by tearing down or destroying some other great industry.

New Market Routes
It would seem to me that the true way to reduce our transportation charges is, first, to distribute the movement of our products evenly over the year, and second, to reduce the cost by actually shortening the distance to the market by some such program as the St. Lawrence canal. Such measures as these would in the course of a few years reduce the cost by bushel when measured by the world market eight or 10 cents and this alone would measure the margin of profit or loss. I would say all strength to the hands of those who are striving for the deep water way to the Atlantic and also to those who are trying to distribute more evenly the movement of our farm products throughout the season.

There are those who would reduce the cost of everything which the farmer must buy. This could readily be done either by repealing the Immigration Law and bringing in a flood of cheap labor, lowering wages, and in general bringing down costs of production of all other materials or a repeal of all tariffs, thus permitting a flood of cheaper materials to move in from other countries. This in itself would force the cutting of wages and reducing of costs of production in order that American manufacturers might compete with foreign goods. I for one would not commend either of these solutions. I would say when ninety percent of our commerce, manufacturing, transportation, finance and other activities will prosper why tear down all these while trying to improve the condition of a special group, especially when the condition of that group could so readily be improved by a policy as sound from the standpoint of economics and government as any of the other policies, whether it be, immigration restriction, the protective tariff, the Federal Reserve program or other.

Build Up, Not Tear Down
Let us not tear down but let us build. Let us build a temporary structure of protection to our wheat growers during the period of readjustment and let us build permanent a reorganized system of farming in our special wheat belts as well as other special belts under the guidance and direction of all who wish to see agriculture as a whole on the most prosperous basis. Let us help first, to build up consumption; second, to reorganize production; third, to improve marketing; fourth, to reduce transportation costs; fifth, to reduce taxation and in the many other ways to improve the situation. But let this not conceal or hide from view the permanent program which we must carry forward.

System Defective
The whole system of marketing at the present time is defective compared to the possibility under a well developed cooperative scheme. I would therefore say all strength to the hands of those who are giving their time chiefly to the problem of developing a better marketing system. There are those who would

You Need a Pilot

Every good ship, nearing port, takes on a pilot. Usually, the law requires it. The pilot know the channel. With his capable hands at the helm, the vessel is safe. Without him, there is danger of the shoals.

When you set sail on a shopping tour you, too, should have a pilot. Everybody needs one. And well-informed shoppers always have one—advertising.

Advertising keeps you off the rocks of extravagance and waste. It takes you straight into the port of economy. It tells you plainly where to go for what you want. It shows you how to save steps—and money—and time. By watching it carefully, each day, you are able to buy to best advantage.

Often, the advertisements will keep you from making an unwise purchase by pointing out just why one article suits you better than another. It points out for you the pick of the country's market and the selection of the particular kind, shape, size and color that best suits your taste and fits your pocket-book.

Whether you want food, clothing, furniture or a toy for the children, the advertisements can help you.

Let advertising steer your steps
